There are numerous online tutorials out there. The key to learning Photoshop is repetition. YouTube is a good source for tutorials as well as the blog of the _Masters of Photography_, www.mastersofphotography.com, which provides 100-plus tutorials spanning various software programs. Photoshop is available on most operating systems. It works best on the Macintosh platform, but it's available on most Windows systems. No matter what your operating system, you need to make sure it's the most recent version of Photoshop, which usually is around Version 10. If you run into any trouble, you may also have to update your video card drivers, depending on your operating system. ## Printing Photos After you take a photo, it makes sense to print it out. Then you can make sure the photograph is exactly as you want it — in focus, crisp, and ready to hang. Printing your photos in black-and-white or in sepia, as outlined in the following sections, is easier than printing black-and-white photos in color, especially if you take the time to print prints from photo software on a home printer. ## Looking at ways to print black-and-white photos No matter what you shoot with, you can print black-and-white photos for the best possible results. You don't need to make any fancy adjustments to a photo because color prints can have a weird and unwanted effect on the colors in black-and-white prints. These steps outline ways to print black-and-white photos: * Check your printer's paper type. Many printers sell a range of papers. Often, you can print on cardstock, newsprint, and a range of papers in between. Figure 7-2 shows you the options available to you. Some photo printers automatically print a best-fit paper of your choice, or you can specify one. * Adjust brightness and contrast. Brightness and contrast are found in the Printer Control Panel. If you have too high a contrast, the photo may appear gray or dim. You can increase the contrast by pressing the Contrast control. You can use the same setting for both. * Select paper color. You have several options, including _Auto, _Black_ (for black-and-white prints), _Sepia_, and _Gray_. If the paper you choose has a specific _temperature_ (heat), you can choose that as well

Q: Is it okay to donate for the upcoming stackoverflow meetup? Some of the awesome people I met at the meetup have asked me if they can donate to the event. Are they allowed to do this? Is there a benefit to doing it? A: YES! We are not charging, yet, so the money is really appreciated, especially since our venue is free for everyone. A: The event is now over, but I'd say a donation is also a way to say thanks to everyone who showed up at the event, answered questions, chatted with the speakers and the other participants. It's a really cool thing to attend and it's nice to receive some recognition. Category: davis balls Davis-Besse : Wind Turbine Co-Owners Announced. Today, a new company entered the picture in Ottawa County, Ohio. A company called Windsave LLC made a presentation to the Ottawa County officials regarding their acquisition of Davis-Besse Reactor's power generating operations – specifically the East Unit 2 and West Unit 3 wind turbines. The company said its goal is to bring a new energy source to the Southwestern Ohio community. Dean Davis (left) and James Hamilton with signed legal papers (Source: Davis-Besse Nuclear Power Plant) The Davis-Besse Reactor units consist of two uranium-fueled reactors. The reactors started up in the 1960s with a total of 1,048 MW of generating capacity. They were the first commercial nuclear reactors to be built in the United States. The original reactors had no design limitations, but during a two-year shut down, engineers discovered that the pile of uranium fuel had grown dangerously tall. They are currently only generating 220 MW and the Davis-Besse nuclear plant has been in a state of closure since 1976. In 2006, a ten-year consent order was issued to the Davis-Besse Nuclear Plant, which also required them to upgrade the facility to make it more resistant to terrorism. On November 7, 2015, Davis-Besse Nuclear Power Plant reached an agreement with the U.S. Department of Justice to resolve civil penalties and terms of closure. According to Dean Davis, President of the Davis-Besse Nuclear Power Plant, officials have recognized that wind energy has become a viable option in the area. "We don't

Q: Help with an integral question. I have the question Determine the value of the integral $\int_{-\infty}^{+\infty} \frac{1}{1+e^x} dx$ I found the indefinite integral to be $\ln(1+e^x)$. How do I proceed from here? Should I try integrate by parts? The derivative is $\frac{-e^x}{(1+e^x)^2}$. A: For $t=0$, we have $\int_{-\infty}^{+\infty} \frac{dx}{1+e^x} = \frac{1}{2} \ln(1+e^x) + \frac{1}{2} \ln(1+e^{-x})$ Can you take it from here? Q: SQL query to join all tables without breaking foreign key relations A situation I am working on is where I have dozens of tables that I need to join to a master table in order to then join a third table. I've done the query where the master table has the foreign key and then joined other tables with an inner join. I'm running into issues now because the table structure is changing, so the foreign key is now changing. What I'd like to do is join all tables without breaking the foreign key relations. This is a little bit of an edge case but I am interested in figuring out how to solve it. Here is an example, Schema Table_A Table_B Table_C -AId -BId -CId --- | --- --- | --- --- | --- A B C I am trying to produce something like, Table_A Table_B Table_C -AId -BId
