I am testing CUDA program in ubuntu 16.04. I installed CUDA toolkit v9.0 (downloadable via and I have installed nvcc v9.2.145. I also have installed (and installed successfully) the package recommended by the installation instructions. So, now I can compile and run C++ programs. However, I am unable to run cuda-memcheck as suggested in the installation instructions. For example, with the installation instructions I can compile the following code: `#include <int> main(){ printf("Hello, world! "); }` With the following command in the terminal: `nvidia-smi` and then: `nvcc hello.cu -c` I get: `nvcc: NVIDIA (R) Cuda compiler driver Copyright (c) 2005-2017`

NVIDIA Corporation Built on Tue_Aug_12_14:20:07_CDT_2017 Cuda compilation tools, release 9.0, V9.0.176
#include int main(){ printf("Hello, world! "); }
And if I execute the binary: ./hello It works fine.
However, when I run nvidia-smi cudamemcheck hello.cu It just skips the cudamemcheck command. It looks like cudamemcheck is not recognised by the program.
However, it works fine in other distros, like Fedora. How can I configure and make it working in ubuntu 16.04? Update: I forgot to add that I have installed cuda-utils. A: You need to install cuda- 6d1f23a050
